Spooky2 Sample Digitizer Helped Me With Long-standing Nose Discharge

I have had problems with 'dirty' discharge from my sinuses for a long time. I had it tested a couple of years ago, and it appeared to be Staphylococcus Aureus. Some 'minor' health problems are often taken for granted, and although I have owned a Sample Digitizer for years I have been too lazy to take the time and the trouble to put it to use. After having run the Sample Digitizer for 3 days and nights, using Scan and Run and Hunt and Kill programs interchangeably, I finally notice results.

I still have some mucus as I know it is also a matter of allergy due to the environment I live in, but the color is now transparent. This must mean that the SA have been largely eliminated. I have decided to continue with the treatment for at least another week to give it the best chance.

Spooky2 Q&A 💡

Is there a recipe for regrowing disc tissue in the lower spine? 🧑

The cold laser treatment is a very effective way to regrow tissue and new cells. You can use the cold laser wristband connected to the XM Generator only, and find the preset settings for spine problems! For more suggestions click here!

What do you do with multiple generators? What's the benefit of that? ✨

I only have 3. #1 is maintenance and I have samples for all family members in that remote. #2 is running whichever Lyme step I am on and #3 runs the same step I on remote all day, then I do contact with that one at night. For more suggestions click here!

How often do I need to replace fingernails for XM generators? I've seen mixed advice on this.

Some say they will last a month and some say they last longer. But I just changed mine up every two weeks every time I cut my fingernails so you might as well just get into that routine. Click here to see more suggestions.

How would you bioscan something that's on your face and near your eye?

Would you try using contact pads and running a biofeedback scan? Or would scalar do the trick? It began as a tiny red dot near his left eye and over the months has formed into a much larger hard, sort of puffy and red patch. I'm just helping a friend here and would like any information, ideas etc. Click here to read more.
